Contents

Acknowledgments vii
Preface xi

1. A Systemic Functional Framework 1
   1.1 Introduction 1
   1.2 Systemic Functional Grammar: scales and categories 2
      1.2.1 Systemic functional linguistics and other linguistic theories 11
   1.3 A stratified architecture 17
      1.3.1 Context 19
      1.3.2 Semantics 25
      1.3.3 Lexicogrammar 29
      1.3.4 Conclusion 30
   1.4 Conclusions 30

2. From a Common Causative Situation to its Linguistic
   Expression 33
   2.1 Introduction 33
   2.2 Causative situation and causal relations: some definitions 34
   2.3 The causation potential in Dutch 39
      2.3.1 A typology of causal expressions in Dutch 44
      2.3.2 A selection of Dutch markers of causation 49
   2.4 Accounting for commonality and divergence: the notion
            ‘grammatical metaphor’ 58
   2.5 Conclusions 62

3. On (Causal) Coherence: Structure and Relations 65
   3.1 Introduction 65
   3.2 Global causal coherence 67
      3.2.1 Rhetorical Structure Theory 68
   3.3 Causation on the local text level 72
      3.3.1 On the functionality of causal relations 74
   3.4 Conclusions 91

   4.1 Introduction 93
   4.2 On the “natural explicitness” of connectives 94
      4.2.1 General meaning and function of connectives 97
4.3 Omdat
  4.3.1 Syntactic constraints on the use of omdat 100
  4.3.2 Semantic constraints on the selection of omdat 104
  4.3.3 Conclusion 108
4.4 Want
  4.4.1 Ideational want 110
  4.4.2 Interpersonal want 126
  4.4.3 Textual want 129
  4.4.4 Conclusion 130
4.5 Doordat
4.6 Conclusions 139

5. Prepositional Causatives
  5.1 Introduction 141
  5.2 A case of grammatical metaphor? 142
  5.3 Constraints on the selection of prepositional causatives 145
    5.3.1 Pragmatic and cognitive constraints on prepositional selection 146
    5.3.2 Syntactic and semantic constraints on prepositional selection 151
  5.4. Conclusion 169

6. Causal Auxiliaries
  6.1 Introduction 171
  6.2 Analytic causatives: general remarks 172
  6.3 Analytic causatives: an interpersonal interpretation 175
  6.4 Analytic causatives in Dutch
    6.4.1 Direct vs. Indirect causation 181
    6.4.2 Laten: Indirect and volitional causation? 185
  6.5 Conclusions 194

7. Summary and Concluding Remarks
  7.1 The object of investigation of this work 195
  7.2 Perspectives on future research 200

References 203