TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of Abbreviations Used to Refer to the Works of Emmanuel Levinas .................................................... X
Editorial Note (W. Wolf Diedrich).................................................. XIV

Roger Burggraeve (editor)

Introduction: Awakened into Vigilance: In conversation with a recalcitrant thinker ......................................................... 1

“No One Can Save Oneself without Others”: An Ethic of Liberation in the Footsteps of Emmanuel Levinas (Roger Burggraeve)

Introduction .................................................................... 13
The Horrible Calamity of Anonymous Being-without-Beings................................................................. 14
The ‘Auto-Position’ of the ‘I’ as First Liberation .......... 20
The ‘I’ as Liberation also Has a Reverse Side ........... 23
Everyday Life in the World as Salvation ..................... 27
Economics as Liberation Midway................................... 29
Only a Radical Alterity Can Liberate the ‘I’ ............... 31
In Search of a True, Non-Deadly Alterity .................. 36
The Other as the Face of Liberation............................. 38
Called Away from Oneself into Responsibility ............. 41
Election and Goodness Full of Desire Complete the Liberation from Myself............................................. 44
Responsibility Makes Me Worldwide................................ 47
Otherwise than Being or Beyond Essence................. 53
Conclusion and ‘Theological’ Perspective: ‘Unto-God’ as Liberation .............................................................. 58

Levinas’ Christian Readers: Judaism’s Other? (W. Wolf Diedrich)

Introduction ..................................................................... 67
The Other vs. the Third ................................................... 70
Fallenness vs. Blamelessness.......................................... 75
Salvation vs. Responsibility............................................. 78
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Jesus vs. the Torah ........................................................... 83
Conclusion (Eliminating the ‘Versus’) ............................... 86

Infinite Responsibility and ‘Good Enough Parenting’:
The Challenge of Levinas’ Thought for Family Ethics
(Annemie Dillen)
Introduction .................................................................... 89
Levinas and Parent-Child Relations: Responsibility and Discontinuity ................................................................. 91
Different Levels of Responsibility and the Danger of Overcharging Parents ................................................... 94
Responsibility for the Third ánd the First Party.............. 100
Rational Theories about Parenting and the Challenge of Infinite Responsibility ................................................... 103
Conclusion ................................................................. 109

The Other as Oneself: A Confrontation between Paul
Ricoeur and Emmanuel Levinas (Tomas Folens)
Introduction .................................................................... 113
From ‘I’ to Self ................................................................. 116
The Saying and the Said.................................................... 121
The Other and Alterity...................................................... 123
A Few Remarks on Ricoeur’s Reading of Otherwise than Being.............................................................................. 128
Conclusion and Final Remarks.......................................... 135

Renewing Christian Theology with Levinas:
Towards a Trinitarian Praxis (Glenn Morrison)
Introduction .................................................................... 137
Prolegomenon to a Trinitarian Praxis............................. 140
Trinitarian Praxis ............................................................. 141
Ethical Transcendence .................................................... 144
Eschatology and Ethical Transcendence ....................... 146
Gifted Passivity ............................................................... 151
The Eucharist and Gifted Passivity................................. 153
Conclusion ................................................................. 156
TABLE OF CONTENTS

In Response to the Religious Other: Levinas, Interreligious Dialogue and the Otherness of the Other

(Marianne Moyaert)

Introduction .................................................................... 161

“If You Have Seen the Colour of the Eyes You Are Not in Relationship with the Other” ......................... 165

Pluralism and Particularism ............................................. 170

Unitive Pluralism: Appreciation and Critique ............ 171

Particularism and the Irreducible Otherness of the Other

The Ethical Foundation of Interreligious Dialogue........ 178

The Vulnerability of the Other in Her Difference .......... 180

Interreligious Dialogue and the Frailty of Testimony .... 182

The Tragedy of Interreligious Dialogue ....................... 184

The Religious Dimension of Interreligious Dialogue ..... 186

Conclusion ...................................................................... 189

The Face-to-Face as Asymmetrical and Reciprocal Revelation: Founding the Ethics of the Process of Pastoral Counselling in the Footsteps of Levinas (Marina Riemslagh)

Introduction .................................................................... 191

I Am Held Responsible ................................................ 193

The Other is Present as a Face......................................... 196

Counselling as Face-to-Face......................................... 201

The Pastoral Dialogue: Absolute Respect for the Otherness of the Other .............................................. 207

Conclusion ...................................................................... 212

On Freedom in Athens and Jerusalem: Arendt’s Political Challenge to Levinas’ Ethics of Responsibility

(Anya Topolski)

Introduction .................................................................... 215

Levinas’ Difficult Freedom ........................................... 217

Arendt’s Political Freedom ........................................... 226

Arendt’s Political Challenge to Levinas’ Ethics of Responsibility .................................................... 232

A Question as Conclusion ............................................... 239
From Humanism to Anti-Humanism and Back Again: Levinas’ Redefinition of Subjectivity and Responsibility
(Emilie Van Daele)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>241</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humanism: A ‘Venerable’ Philosophical Tradition</td>
<td>242</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anti-Humanism and the End of Interiority: A Chance to Redefine Subjectivity</td>
<td>247</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The End of Responsibility?</td>
<td>251</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Humanism and Anti-Humanism Come Together</td>
<td>253</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>258</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

An Agapeic Ethics without Eros? Emmanuel Levinas on Need, Happiness and Desire
(Jean Vanheessen)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>259</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nygren’s Agape without Eros</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From Need and Happiness to Exteriority and Desire</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Need and Happiness</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Need, Eros and Desire</td>
<td>264</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>An Agapeic Desire?</td>
<td>266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Self-as-Sacrifice-to-the-Other and Restless Desire for the Infinite</td>
<td>269</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From the Ego to Substitutional Responsibility</td>
<td>269</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desire as Restless, Sleepless and Hungry</td>
<td>271</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desire, Eros and the Good</td>
<td>273</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>276</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

On Time: Levinas’ Appropriation of Bergson
(Sophie Veulems)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Evolution of Bergson’s Thought on Duration</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duration as a Transgression of the Laws of Mechanics</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duration as Creative Process</td>
<td>282</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duration as Moral Obligation</td>
<td>283</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bergson’s Duration as Inspiration for Levinas’ Thought on Time</td>
<td>284</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Time as Dynamic</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Time as Alterity</td>
<td>287</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Time as the Ethical Relationship to the Other</td>
<td>290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radicalisation as Distance</td>
<td>292</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Diachrony as Precondition for Ethics .............................. 293
The Ethical Relation Implies a Rupturing of Time in the Present......................................................... 296
Beyond Every Form of Intentionality .............................. 298
Conclusion .................................................................... 300

Levinas, Euthanasia and the Presence of Non-Sense (Torben Wolf)
Introduction .................................................................... 303
The Sense in Being.......................................................... 305
The Sense Before Being................................................... 309
My Death as the Destroyer of Sense? ............................... 310
Useless Suffering.............................................................. 312
The Request for Euthanasia............................................. 315
In Conclusion.................................................................. 318

List of Contributors ........................................................... 321
Index of Names and Subjects ............................................. 325