

CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction Petra Broomans, Goffe Jensma, Hans Vandevoorde and Maarten Van Ginderachter	ix
Contributors	xiii
How Useful is the Concept of Ethnolinguistic Nationalism? On Imagined Communities, the Ethnic-Civic Dichotomy and Banal Nationalism Maarten Van Ginderachter	1
Linguistic Geopolitics and the Problem of Cultural Nationalism Joep Leerssen	15
The Concept of Ethnolinguistic Nationalism and Cultural Transfer. The Reception of Scandinavian Literature in Flanders and the Netherlands Petra Broomans	37
From Language to Nationality. The Case of the Dutch-speaking Belgians in the Nineteenth Century Bruno De Wever	49
Minorities and Kinships. The Case of Ethnolinguistic Nationalism in Friesland Goffe Jensma	63
Language Policy as a Cornerstone of Nation-Building. Linguistic Identities in the Nordic Countries Godelieve Laureys	79
Language, National Culture and the Clergy in Nineteenth-Century Denmark Nikolaj Bijleveld	93

The Song of the Mother Tongue. Swedophone Finland as Text Clas Zilliacus	109
Linguistic Distance between 'Flemish' and Norwegian around 1900. Subjective Views and Objective Measurements Charlotte Gooskens and Renée van Bezooijen	121
The Power of Illusion. Flemish Writers on Germany, 1870-1914 Greet Draye	139
The Netherlands: an Ethnic Nation in spite of Itself Marnix Beyen	157
Racial-Linguistic Nationalism. Race, Language and Nation at the Antwerp Universal Exhibition of 1894 Hans Vandevoorde	171
Conclusion	187
Bibliography	191
Index	209