

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	xi
List of abbreviations.	xv
Notes on the text.	xvii
Prologue: Atheist Preambles	1

PART ONE: ATHEISM AND SPIRIT

CHAPTER ONE: 'UN TEL ÊTRE EST UNE CHIMÈRE': THE ATHEIST ATTACK ON SPIRIT AND ITS ORIGINS IN THE FRATRICIDAL 'GREAT DEBATE'	19
1 Atheist Incoherence Arguments	19
2 'Ruiner d'un côté ce qu'on bâtit de l'autre'	21
3 Descartes Athée, Clarke Athée: D'Holbach's Système	24
4 Warring Sides: Cartesians and Anti-Cartesians	29
5 More and the Anti-Cartesian Party	30
6 Unintended Consequences: More's 'Uncharitable Method' and Univocity	32
7 The Legacy of Morean Spirit in Newton and Clarke and Accusations of Spinozism	35

CHAPTER TWO: ATHEISM, ENTHUSIASM AND THE 'INWARD SENSE': EARLY PLATONIC APPROACHES TO A PHILOSOPHY OF SPIRIT AND MORE'S ERROR THEORY OF ATHEISM	39
1 'Divine Plotin': More's Christian Plotinism	39
2 Spirit in the Early Trinitarian System	42
3 'There is no Demonstration against impudence and pertinac- ity': More's Error Theory	46
4 'Immersion' in the Body: Atheism as Wilful Self-Misgov- ernment	48

5 True Rational Enthusiasm: More's Argument against Atheism from Religious Experience	52
CHAPTER THREE: RESCUING THE 'MAD JINGLE': THE ORIGINS OF SPIRITUAL EXTENSION IN MORE'S EARLY REFORMULATION OF THE HOLENMEERIC DOCTRINE OF SPIRIT	59
1 Hesitations about the Inherited Doctrine	59
2 'Can any man think that God is served with such absurdities?': Holenmerism as an Invitation to Atheism	61
3 'Extension' versus 'Distrought Distension': Spiritual Extension Prior to the More-Descartes Correspondence	63
4 Platonic Reformulations	67
PART TWO: ATHEISMUS INDIRECTUS (FINITE SPIRIT)
CHAPTER FOUR: 'ARISTOTELEAN ATHEISM': THE THREAT TO FINITE SPIRIT FROM AVERROISM	75
1 'Men over-atheistical': Averroists and Averroism	75
2 Atheistic Abuses of Hylomorphism	80
3 'Will and Intellect Do Not Rely Upon the Body'	81
4 'If I Perceive Not that I Do Exist?': the Weakness of the Inherited Defence of Finite Spirit's Immortality	83
CHAPTER FIVE: MORE'S PLATONIC SOLUTION TO 'AVEN-ROE': SOUL VEHICLES AND THE CENSURE OF 'DIVINE PLOTIN'	87
1 From 'Pure Soul' to Soul Vehicles	87
2 Reading Descartes through Averroes: Descartes as an Abettor of Averroism	93
3 'For we are not we, unless we remember that we are so': More's Mature Refutation of Averroism in the Immortality	96
4 What It Is Like to Be Dead: Morean Personal Identity	98
5 An Intimate Dependence: Rethinking the Mind-Body Relation	102
6 'The Soul is the Man': Platonic Individuation	104

CHAPTER SIX: THE ANTIDOTE AGAINST ATHEISM : SPIRIT OF NATURE AS AN ANTIDOTE TO CARTESIAN ANTI-FINALISM, AND THE ORIGINS OF PHYSICO-THEOLOGY	107
1 The Physico-Theological Reaction to Cartesian Physics. . .	107
2 More's Anti-Mechanistic Alternative: Spirit of Nature . . .	110
3 The Antidote as Anti-Cartesian Text	111
4 Is Cartesian Physics 'Atheistic'? More's Critique and Boyle's Alternative	113
5 More's Explanation of Design in the Antidote	115
6 Muddling towards Certainty	119

PART THREE: ATHEISMUS DIRECTUS (INFINITE SPIRIT)

CHAPTER SEVEN: GOD AS SPACE: THE BEGINNINGS OF THE MATURE SPIRITUAL EXTENSION DOCTRINE IN DEFENCE OF INFINITE SPIRIT . .	123
1 God-Space.	123
2 The More-Descartes Correspondence: the Emergence of the Mature Doctrine from Holenmerism	124
3 Anti-Holenmerism as a Response to the 'Nullibist' Threat .	129
4 The Antidote and the Atheist Thesis of the Necessary Existence of Matter: Spiritual Extension as a Rebuttal	135
5 More's A Priori Arguments from the Concepts of Perfect Being, Space, and Infinity	136
6 The Temptations of Clare et Distincte Concipio	142

CHAPTER EIGHT: 'THE HAMMER OF THE CARTESIANS': ATHEISING NULLIBISM IN THE ENCHIRIDION , AND THE 'DEEP STRUCTURE' OF THE DISAGREEMENT OVER SPIRIT	145
1 Cartesianism as Atheism. The Context of the Argument . .	145
2 The Definition of Nullibism in the Enchiridion	150
3 The Logical Dependence of More's Nullibist Critique on His Anti-Holenmerism	155
4 The 'Deep Structure' of the Disagreement: Univocity versus Analogy	159
5 Poiret, 'Prince of the Nullibists', and the Defence of an Analogical Spirit Doctrine against Morean Univocity	161

CHAPTER NINE: 'THE IDOL OF MODERN ENGLISH MEN': THE MATURE DOCTRINE OF SPIRITUAL EXTENSION, ITS LEGACY, AND ITS VULNERABILITIES	169
1 The Mature Doctrine: the God-Space Identification Demonstrated A Priori, and the Defence of 'Weak Absolutism'	169
2 More's Contribution within the 'Great Debate' as the Matrix for Newton and Clarke	176
3 Morean Influence on Newton.	179
4 Clarke as Principal Mediator of 'the Deplorable English Tendency' to the Eighteenth Century.	185
5 The Problem of Spatial 'Parts' as an Unintended 'Atheist' Implication of Spiritual Extension	188
6 Poiret and Leibniz Spot the Problem: More's Basic Assumptions about Substance	193
CHAPTER TEN: 'MORUS SPINOZIANUS?': THE CLIMAX OF MORE'S ANTI-ATHEISM IN HIS REBUTTAL OF SPINOZA'S CARTESIAN ENTHUSIASM, AND MOREAN PANENTHEISM
1 More's Confutatio of Spinoza in the Context of the 'Great Debate'	199
2 The Morean Reduction of Spinoza's Pantheism to Atheism: the Form of His Anti-Spinozist Argument	201
3 The Construction of Spinozist Atheism as a Logical Consequence of Cartesianism: (a) Substance and Attribute; (b) Matter; (c) Final Causes; (d) Finite Spirits	203
4 More's 'Weak Absolutist' Defence of Spiritual Extension versus Spinoza's 'Atheism'.	219
5 Panentheism, and Worse: More's Alleged Proximity to Pantheism/Atheism	224
Epilogue: More's 'Secular Theology' and Atheism: an Ambivalent Legacy.	229
Bibliography	241
Index	263